Vision for art 3^x

This is a rough working draft. Most of these thoughts have risen in conversations with people I trust deeply.
I will be citing all conversations once I have put down the draft of a manifesto.

art 3x intention overview

— concept deck

It is March 2020 and the world has been disrupted like never before. Particularly the art world, which is the first to suffer an economic hit in a recession, is in panic as the world comes to a grinding halt.

In early 2020, Museums started cancelling commissions, galleries could not make rent, Theaters doors remained shut for what seems like forever, collectors and patrons can no longer justify enormous spending on art, when people are losing jobs, homes and loved ones.

The art world for us includes the new cutting edge avant garde creators including painters, sculptors, AI artists, rappers, dancers, bio hackers, bitcoin artists, VR sculptors, video game artists, performance artists, utopia artists, psychedelic chefs etc.)

“Art feels like an indulgence of the rich to many while a small group of others believe that art will play a critical role in shaping our future, yet others believe that art may not save humanity but it is art that will make humanity worth saving.”

The ultimate artist is believed to be one who can create his/her own reality. The greatest artists in history were polymaths. They worked with science, chemistry (to create pigments), biology (to study anatomy) and also engaged deeply with philosophy and government. In short they took art beyond the gallery into the world at large. Where are those people now?

Meet the people who dare to imagine alternate realities for us. They were born with a crazy belief in a way of life and they would go against the grain to create small pockets of an alternate world. They live life on their terms, they wear their personalities on their shoulders. These reality benders are unlike the heroes we know. They reinvent themselves, they cross boundaries, they celebrate their failures, and most importantly, live their own truths. In doing so, they give us glimpses of alternate ways of living. They give humanity hope when everything around us is falling apart.

“Art has the most influential power of all, the power to inspire change!” -

I. Art should engage the whole artist

The whole self for us consists of personal + professional + spiritual

The artist should go beyond the gallery to engage with the world at large.

The artist should be an active part of society and build community.

The artist is open to sharing and learning from each other.

II. Blur the distinction between art, art criticism & art education

Art as art criticism / Art criticism as art.

Art as art education / Art education as art.

Artist and Critic collaborate to create aesthetics for a new digital encounter.

III. Art should activate community transformation

Manifesto for the future of art - co created

The artist as an agent of transformation of the community.

The community as a safe space for creation.

The community as the sight of genius. (socius vs genius - Karthik Kalyanaraman)

Blurring boundaries between art, art education, art criticism and art making. (64/1)

Relevance & accessibility to the zeitgeist is critical.

IV. Artists should imagine utopias and dystopias

Using new tools of transcendence of our times, we want artists to imagine alternate realities. When everything around us is falling apart, they give humanity a glimpse of hope of an alternate reality. Art has the most important function of all - to inspire and move.

V. Art should be future facing

Most of art today is backward facing - caught up with identity politics.

The art of the future focuses more on where we want to go as opposed to who we are. We are where we want to go.

The role of the artist is to help society imagine and create the next best version of ourselves.

VI. Art as an attitude towards binaries

We wish to offer the world an Eastern aesthetic approaches to contemporary art

West - great at identifying binaries.

East - great at confusing binaries.

West + East → attitude towards binaries

VII. Personality Vs Brand

A brand is a promise. No artist can remain a promise. Personality however is an attitude towards conflicts within. This attitude is called personality.
